

Abstract of the Invention

A gear drive housing that has a continuously variable bearing adjustment system and an integral seal carrier for the bearings on drive shafts that protrude from the housing. Threads in a housing bore mate with threads in a combination bearing adjustment and seal carrier to provide continuous adjustment of drive shaft bearings without disassembly.

5